Tonight we welcome the Melbourne Knights to North Sydney Oval in a match that starts a run of four games that will see where Northern Spirit stands in the 2000/01 NSL.

The Melbourne Knights are sitting exactly where we would love to be - 6th place - and we need to put on a good performance to show everyone, including our fans, that we are capable of mixing it with the big boys.

After we take on the Knights we take on Canberra, Parramatta and Brisbane in the next three weeks and all of those teams are sitting in the middle of the table.

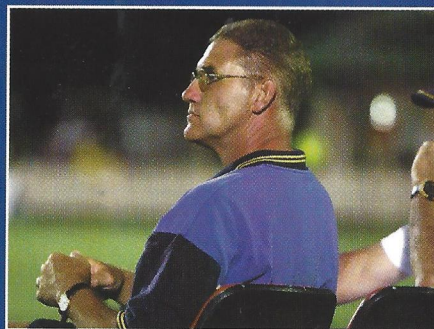

The top six is not a reality for us but we need to finish as high as possible - and that means on top of the middle pack.

Earlier in the season we went to Knights Stadium and drew 1-1 with the Knights with Ben Burgess scoring the goal.

That result was achieved before the Knights picked up three very good players from Carlton and they have improved dramatically since then.

The match will be very tough for Northern Spirit but we are determined to continue to turn things around.

In recent weeks we have put together some good performances but the one blemish came at North Sydney Oval against Adelaide City Force.

We are determined to turn things around and show our fans what we are capable of.

Last weekend against Marconi we were very solid, especially in defence, and that is one of the things we have been working on.

We didn't give Marconi a sniff until the final minute and we never really looked in danger.

Across the midfield we built a strong platform with Craig Foster and Robbie Enes controlling the middle of the field.

The next step is to start stepping up a gear with the ball at our feet and hopefully you will see evidence of that tonight.

Even in Northern Spirit's relatively short history our games against the Marconi Stallions have taken on that little extra 'edge'.

For some reason there seems to be always that little bit extra significance in the games for the fans, and although last Saturday night's game never reached any great heights it would have also been more significant for the sizeable ex-Stallions contingent in the Spirit ranks.

One of those former Marconi players is the versatile Michael Cunico, who spent six seasons at the club before joining the AIS.

"It's always special playing against your former club," says Cunico. "Although there aren't many players still there from the juniors you still do see a number of faces around that you recognise."

Cunico made his 75th NSL appearance for the Spirit last weekend, the most of any player at the club, after making the move from the AIS in Canberra.

"It was quite a difficult decision originally in choosing between Marconi and Spirit, because of my ties to Marconi, but there were so many things in Spirit's favour.

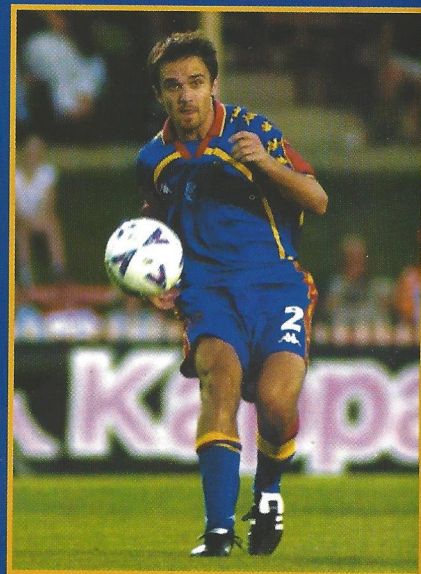

"The club were full-time, which Marconi weren't, and also Spirit had a coach, which at the time Marconi didn't. The main thing though was the vision and set-up of Spirit, as I thought at the time that if they could pull half of it off they would do well - and they did."

Cunico played 21 games in Spirit's first season in the NSL, which was not only more than he dared hope for but also included a substitute appearance against Sydney Olympic in the club's first game, and answers quickly when asked about the highs and lows of the past three seasons.

"The high point was definitely the first season - it was just such a buzz. The game against Olympic was special, as was scoring the winning goal against Perth. The lows were just all the turmoil, and that some people just seem to constantly knock the club. It seems that they only concentrate on the negative, and never look at the positive behind Spirit."

Cunico's contract expires at the end of the season, a situation he says he would like to sort out as soon as possible. He is relatively happy with his own form, although says there is room for improvement.

"I would like to be more consistent as a player, although I am playing in a new position and am still learning that role."

Asked who has had a big influence on him, Cunico nominates club captain Robbie Slater.

"The way Robbie goes about training was just a real eye-opener when he came back from England," says Cunico. "He really attacks his work, and you realise that that's what you have to do to make it."

Coach Mick Hickman has similarly impressed Cunico.

"The main thing he brings is a real enthusiasm to training and the squad. He is different from 'Arnie' - I am not saying that one is right or wrong - but of course we don't know what is happening at the end of the season. It would be nice to know, but of course as players we can't do anything about it anyway."

Cunico has completed a PT course, and says he is interested in taking that further, and away from the football enjoys tennis.

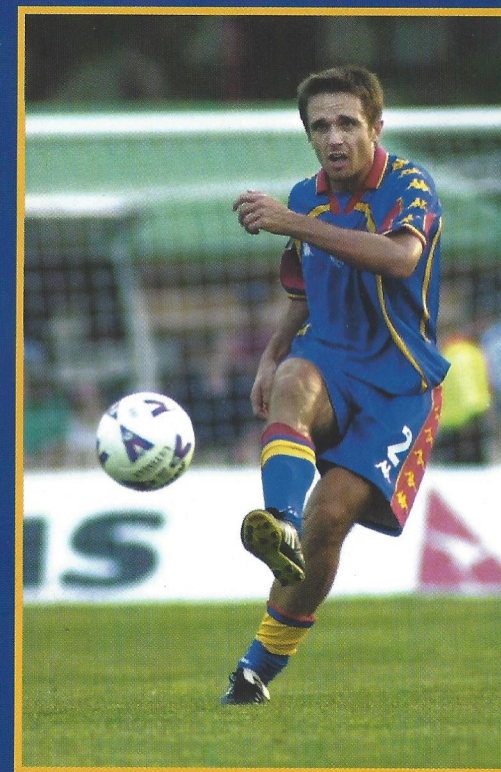

"The only thing is during the season you need to conserve your energy, so I can't be bombing around after a tennis ball!"

It's Cunico's versatility on the football field though that has seen him play in a number of defensive and midfield positions for the club, but he laughs when asked which he feels is his most natural or favourite position on the park.

"I really have no idea to be honest - maybe I just haven't found it yet!"

COACH: Vlado Vanis

Tonight we welcome the players, fans and officials of the Melbourne Knights to North Sydney Oval.

The club was formed in 1953 and first competed in Victorian soccer at provisional level. After the club had attained all possible accolades in State soccer, it was admitted to the National Soccer League in 1984.

Coach Vlado Vanis brings his side up from Victoria on the back of a 2-2 home draw against the improving Football Kingz, and the Knights are handily placed in sixth spot on the ladder.

Vanis, a former Knights player, knows his team can't afford to slip up however, as both Adelaide and Sydney United are just one win behind his team.

The Knights missed the exciting Tota Da Costa last week, the striker sitting out the game through suspension, but the addition of ex-Carlton players Andrew Marth, Steve Horvat and Lubo Lapsansky gave his squad some real depth.

Last week Vanis started with Lupce Acevski in goals, the 23-year old having only started 6 NSL games to the start of the season. With back-up in the form of Martin John, who Spirit fans will remember from an inspired game here at North Sydney Oval a couple of seasons ago, Vanis is spoilt for choice.

In defence Daniel Vasilevski, Rodrigo Vargas, Sasa Ogenovski and Joey Rajher form an inexperienced back-line, but its in midfield where Marth and Lapsansky add their experience.

Marth, the former skipper of Carlton until their demise, is a former Knights player, and he captained the club to back-to-back NSL championships in 1994/95 and 1995/96. After playing nearly 200 games for the club he made the move to Carlton, but was only too happy to move back to Knights Stadium.

Lapsansky, who celebrates his 29th birthday next month, is a skillful player who works well alongside Marth, and along with Alex Kiratzoglou and Ivan Jolic will need to be watched.

In attack last the Knights started with Joel Porter and Anthony Pelikan, two more of Vanis' young brigade. Porter has already netted 9 goals this season, while fellow striker Adrian Cervinski sits with Da Costa on 10 NSL goals.

On the bench were Jason Vukadin, who has played all his football with the club, as has fellow defender Dragi Nastevski, while Xhezair Sulemani is a newcomer to the squad.

The Rules !!!

For the next couple of games, we are going to try to explain some of the rules of the game, and update you with any changes.

The first rule that people ask about at a game is OFFSIDE, so this is going to be the first rule tackled.

The OFFSIDE position.

It is not an offence to be offside if the player is not in active play, in other words, the player is not going for the ball and attempting to gain an advantage.

The referee or the referees assistant will flag for offside if at the moment the ball touches, or is played by one of the team, the player is in active play. Active play is seen as the player interfering with play or an opponent, e.g. blocking the keeper from stopping the ball, or if the player is gaining an advantage from being in that position.

It is an offence to be nearer to the opposition goal line, than the ball and the second last opponent. The player should always be level with the second last opposition player or closer to their own goal than the second last opposition player.

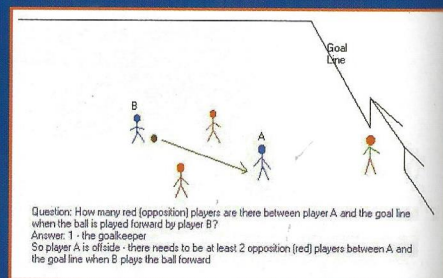

However...

The player is not offside if they are in their own goal half, so the furthest the opposition can push you back using offside is the halfway line. There is also no offside if the player receives the ball from either a goal kick, a throw-in or a corner kick.

If a player is seen as being offside by the referee, an indirect free kick is awarded to the opposition team at the place the offside occurred.

match report with Mark Fowler

Saturday March 24th, 2001

Marconi Stallions 0

NORTHERN SPIRIT 0

Marconi Stadium. Crowd 4,802.

Northern Spirit picked up a useful point against the Marconi Stallions with a 0-0 draw at Marconi Stadium last Saturday night.

Lee Feeney started his first game for Spirit, in a slightly more advanced role than usual, but as one would expect from the home team it was Marconi who made the early running.

Christian Care caused Spirit problems all night and should have done better after 14 minutes than to blaze over when well placed.

Pan Keun Kim then drove a pile-driver that the recalled Paul Henderson took at full stretch, but it was only as the half wore down that Marconi started to get through the Spirit back-line. Kris Trajanovski saw his free kick go close, but Henderson then presented the striker with a great chance after misjudging a corner. Trajanovski reacted well to prod the ball goalwards, but first Matt Bingley, and then Matt Langdon did enough to hack the ball to safety.

Spirit had to wait until three minutes into the second half for their first effort on target, Feeney's effort looking harmless enough until spilled by Stallions goalkeeper Michael Turnbull. Fortunately for the goalkeeper he was able to smother the ball at the second attempt.

Troy Cranney then whipped a cross over from the right-hand side, and although Ben Burgess missed the ball Feeney prodded goalwards, only for Dominic Longo to clear the ball off the goal line.

On 65 minutes came Spirit's best chance of the game. Cranney has only scored one NSL goal for Spirit, but he did well to cut inside from the right onto his left foot and get a shot on target. Turnbull again did well to save, but Feeney showed quick reactions to side-foot the rebound goalwards, only to see the ball hit the crossbar.

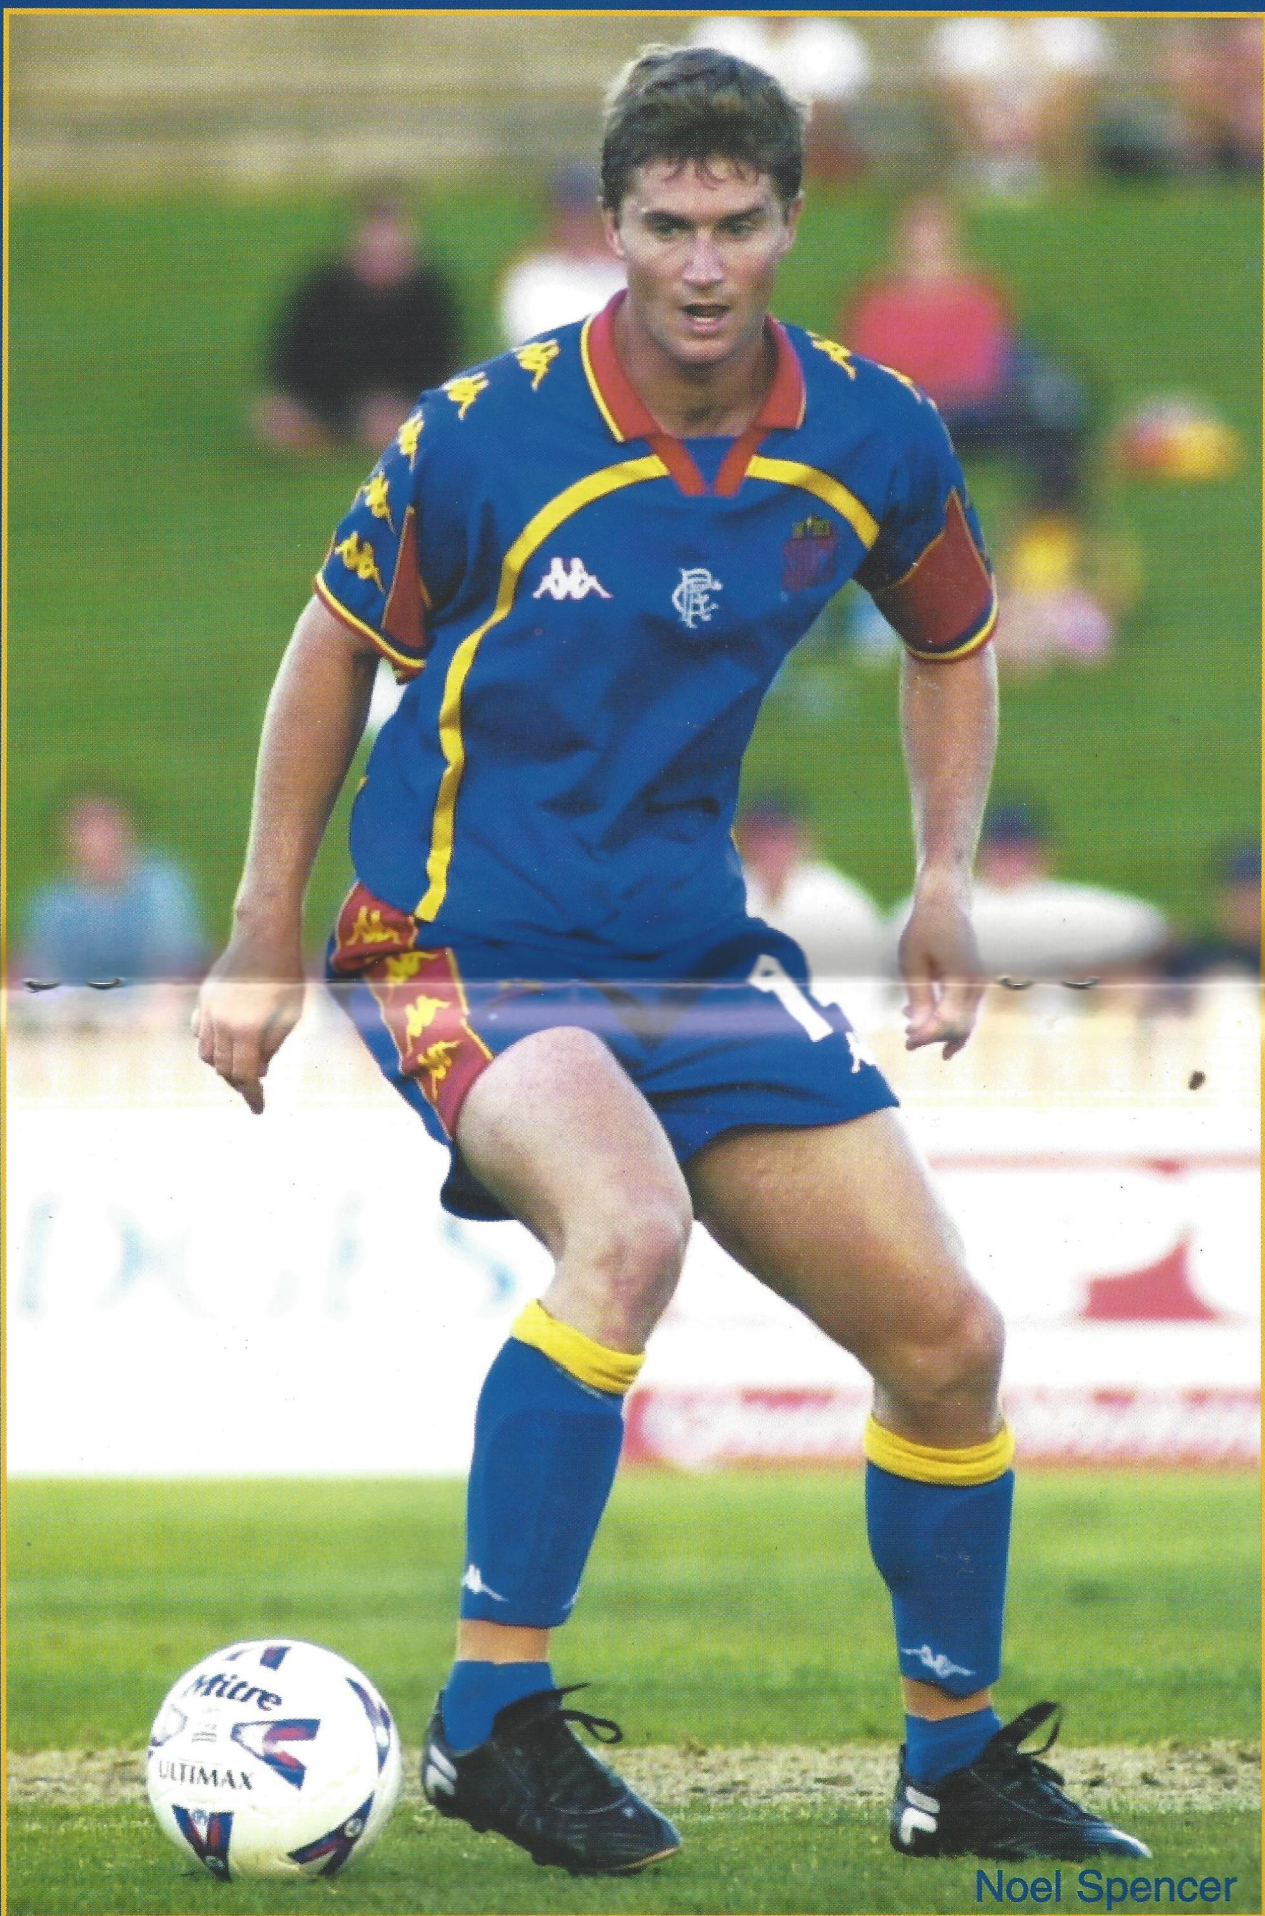

Spirit nearly let it slip in the very last minute of the game however. After another fine performance in an unaccustomed position Noel Spencer made his first mistake of the night, and Marconi substitute Royce Brownlie raced through on goal. He looked a certain scorer, but reckoned without the big frame of Henderson who sprinted from his goal and got an important block in.

Feeney showed enough to suggest he will be a useful acquisition for the club, while both Spencer and Henderson made claims for their places in the team. My man of the match though went to the returning Matthew Bingley, who turned in a commanding performance against his old club after returning from injury.

Belated congratulations too to Mike Smith. The former Marconi man clocked up his 150th NSL appearance in our game against the Adelaide City Force at North Sydney Oval in round 21. Unfortunately for Smith the result left him with little to celebrate as we crashed to a 3-2 defeat.

Spirit took advantage of their free weekend a fortnight ago by playing a friendly match against the Manly Warringah Dolphins at Cromer Park. The NSW Super League side are coached by Gary Van Egmond, and it was Spirit who came away with a 2-0 win thanks to a brace from Daniel Watkins.

The Dolphins have signed three players on the fringe of Spirit's first team - Phil Moss, Adam Snyder and Tony Faria, with Faria netting his first goal for his new club last weekend when the Super League kicked off. Also on the scoresheet in a 2-0 win away at Hajduk Wanderers was Spirit youth team player Peter Antar.

Northern Spirit are proud to have had four players selected in the Australian U17 (Joeys) squad named by coach Ange Postecoglou. Jacob Rex, Matthew Hunter, Alex Wilkinson and Matt Engele were all selected for a squad of 25 players which went into camp at the AIS in Canberra.

In the first of two games against Japan the LG Joeys conceded a late equaliser to finish at 2-2, with Hunter's cross being headed home by Engele for the side's second goal.

All four Spirit players started the match, although goalkeeper Rex could do nothing in the 88th minute when Japan substitute Shingo Nujime netted the equaliser. The two sides were due to meet again on Wednesday, unfortunately after Spirit Matchday goes to print.

Northern Spirit took advantage of the free weekend two weeks ago to throw an Open Day celebration party at North Sydney Oval for the junior soccer players of Northern Sydney.

More than 500 kids turned up with Spirit players conducting a free coaching clinic, as well as shooting competitions, skills demonstrations and goalkeeper sessions. Phil Moss and Ian Crook also hosted a 'coach the coaches session', which proved one of the highlights of the day.

The day was a huge success with the Open Day set to become an annual event on the Northern Spirit calendar.

Northern Spirit would especially like to thank the volunteers from Ku-ring-gai Soccer Association for putting on the wonderful BBQ on the day!

In addition to this free event, the following people also won prizes on the day:

national youth league

We start off with a Spirit youth team round-up way back just over a month ago, with the boys securing a fine 2-1 away victory over Wollongong in our round 14 re-arranged match. Spirit led 1-0 through yet another goal by John Majurovski, but the Wolves equalised just seven minutes later to level the scores after 65 minutes. Just four minutes after that though Michael Prentice grabbed what would prove to be the winner.

In round 21 it was Majurovski again who got on the scoresheet, this time against lead leaders AIS. Spirit held the lead against a team that have only lost once all season until the 56th minute, but still emerged with a creditable draw. In round 22 Spirit came away with a 5-1 home victory over the ACT Academy, Todd Macrae celebrating his return from injury with two goals.

Spirit had a bye in round 23 but played a home catch-up game against the QAS, surprisingly going down 2-1. Simon Catanzaro was the goalscorer from the penalty spot, but Spirit were rocked by the sending-off of Alex Moreira.

Last Sunday Spirit traveled to Marconi to take on the Stallions' experienced youth team, and although Macrae was on the scoresheet again he couldn't prevent Norman Tome and Grant Last giving the home side a 3-2 victory.
